Space Policy

Contents of Volume 11

No 1 February 1995

Viewpoint

'Space benefits' – towards a useful framework for international cooperation. Marietta Benkö and Kai-Uwe Schrogl, 5

Papers

Japan's new long-term vision: creating a space age in the new century. Tamiya Nomura, 9

Satellite vulnerability: a post-Cold War issue? Allen Thomson, 19

Could civil satellites monitor nuclear tests? Bhupendra Jasani, 31

Development and imperialism in space. Alan Marshall, 41

NASA's Earth Observations Commercialization Applications Program: a model for government promotion of commercial space opportunities. Molly K Macauley, 53

Pricing competitively – a response to Jay Lightfoot. Perry C Beider, 67

Reports

Remotely sensed data: technology, management and markets. US Office of Technology Assessment, 71

Civilian satellite remote sensing: a strategic approach. US Office of Technology Assessment, 72

Letter to the editor

Competitive pricing for multi-payload launches revisited. Jay M Lightfoot, 75

Book review

Inside NASA, Howard E McMurdy. Reviewed by Richard Boudreault, 76

Documentation, 77

Publications, 81

Monitor, 81

Calendar, 82

No 2 May 1995

Viewpoints

Space in Europe: new stakes, new structures? Laurence Jourdain, 87

Basic space science and developing countries. Nandasiri Jasentuliyana, 89

Will fiber optics threaten satellite communications? Gordon R W MacLean, 95

Papers

European cooperation in military space. Wulf von Kries, 101

Ukrainian space policy – contributing to national economic development. Roman Krawec, 105

The Moon Treaty: prospects for the future. Glenn Harlan Reynolds, 115

The new Brazilian Space Agency: a political and legal analysis. José Monserrat Filho, 121

International cooperation in remote sensing for global change research: political and economic considerations. Gerald B Thomas, James P Lester and Willy Z Sadeh, 131

Report

ESCAP Space Technology Applications Programme. J Kingwell, 143

Letter to the editor

The cost of spaceflight. Howard E McCurdy, 144

Book reviews

International Space Law in the Making, M Benkö and K-U Schrogl (eds). Reviewed by Luboš Perek, 144

Space Satellite Handbook, Anthony R Curtis. Reviewed by Philip R Harris, 144

A Space for Enterprise, Christopher P R Stott and Mark Watson. Reviewed by Chris Elliott, 144

Documentation, 147

Publications, 149

Calendar, 149

No 3 August 1995

Viewpoint

Paradigm lost. Dwayne A Day, 153

Papers

Space exploration policy: towards an operational vision. Harvey Meyerson, 161

Hermes: learning from our mistakes. Martin Bayer, 171

Regulation of space activities and trans-science: public perceptions and policy considerations. Patricia M Sterns and Leslie I Tennen, 181

Reports

Spacecast 2020 – assessing US military needs in space. US Air University, 193

The Brazilian space program: a selective strategy for space development and business. Décio Castilho Ceballos, 202

Intellectual property rights and space activities. Anna Maria Balsano, 204

Making the most of cooperation with Russia. US Office of Technology Assessment, 209

Letter to the editor

Colonizing the Solar System. Louis Friedman, 211

Publications, 211

Documentation, 212

Calendar, 214

No 4 November 1995

Viewpoints

Space development: social and political implications. I A Crawford, 217

Space: a challenge for Europe. Eurospace, 225

Papers

Space technology as a factor of international stabilization and destabilization. Klaus Becher, 233

Integrating European security through space. Alasdair McLean, 239

Lifting the veil on CORONA. Albert D Wheelon, 249

Cospas–Sarsat: a quiet success story. Richard J H Barnes and Jennifer Clapp, 261

Technology assessment in space activities: status and outlook. Armin Grunwald and Hartmut Sax, 269

Reports

Project Space Vision. Pär Edin, 275

The US National Space Transportation Policy: issues for Congress. US Office of Technology Assessment, 283

Publications, 287

Calendar, 288